Christmas is coming!

It's almost here.
It's the day we celebrate God's love.

A woman in a pink cardigan is sitting on a yellow chair, looking down at a large green gift box. A young child in a green sweater is sitting on the floor next to her, holding a smaller red gift box. A black and white cat is sitting on a striped gift box. There are other gifts and a reindeer figurine on the floor. A large green plant is in the background. The room is decorated with green bunting and yellow lights.

It didn't come in a box.
It wasn't tied with a bow.

This gift came from God, and He planned it long, long ago ...
before the first star ever twinkled in the sky.

Every year, we celebrate Christmas to remember that very first Christmas, when God gave the world His greatest gift—the gift of His very own Son.

Because Jesus was born in Bethlehem long, long ago, all our sins can be forgiven—and we can be close to God again.

You see, God always knew, and now you know too ... and that's why

Christmas is coming!
