

Otter B watched raindrops make little rivers down the windows.
Rain pitter-pattered in puddles outside.
He loved sliding and splashing in the water, but today the weather was cold.
He decided to play indoors instead.

Otter B dumped out his blocks and built a pretend forest with tall trees and a winding creek.

Then he drew pictures of all his friends.

After that, he made a tent with a blanket and piled up a bunch of pillows, like a nest. He crawled inside and read books to his stuffed animals.
